Respected sir,
I hope you are doing well.

I'm writing to kindly request your approval for enrolling in SC478: Application of Statistics to Complex Systems. Although the course has reached its cap, I've received approval from our UG convener to reach out to you directly for special consideration.

As a 7th semester student, this is my final semester with active placement drives going on. I am specifically targeting Machine Learning roles, and this course aligns very closely with my interests and preparation. Unlike other electives, I am familiar with the content of SC478, and I strongly believe it will support my learning goals during this critical time.

I understand the cap is full, but I would be truly grateful if you could consider my request and allow me to enroll in the course as a special case.

Thank you so much for your time and consideration.

Warm regards,
Shravan Kakadiya,

Prompt Title: Exam Preparation Strategy for "Indian Society and Governance"

Prompt Text:

I have my first exam tomorrow for the course Indian Society and Governance. Since my placement drive is ongoing, I could not attend most lectures (only 2–3 out of ~14). However, I know that the exam questions will be based on three PDFs that cover the syllabus. The exam format is 3–4 short answers and one long answer.

The professor, Mr. Vinod Mall (IPS), emphasizes deep understanding of Indian culture and governance. I want to score well in this exam despite limited time. I only have half a day to study.

Please help me:

- Extract the main important points from the three PDFs that are most likely to appear in the exam.
- Highlight short-answer worthy topics and one or two long-answer themes.

- Give me a focused study plan so I can maximize my score in limited time.
